A walking tour of the CBD is a great way to learn about the city's history, architecture, and culture. Here are some of the highlights you'll see on a walking tour:

- The French Quarter: The French Quarter is the oldest neighborhood in New Orleans, and it's still one of the most popular tourist destinations in the city. The French Quarter is home to many of the city's most famous landmarks, including Jackson Square, the St. Louis Cathedral, and Bourbon Street.
- Jackson Square: Jackson Square is the heart of the French Quarter, and it's named after General Andrew Jackson, who defeated the British here in the Battle of New Orleans in 1815. Jackson Square is home to the St. Louis Cathedral, the Presbytere, and the Cabildo.
- The St. Louis Cathedral: The St. Louis Cathedral is the oldest cathedral in the United States, and it's one of the most iconic landmarks in New Orleans. The cathedral was built in the 18th century, and it's a beautiful example of Spanish colonial architecture.
- Bourbon Street: Bourbon Street is the most famous street in New Orleans, and it's known for its bars, restaurants, and live music. Bourbon Street is a great place to experience the city's nightlife, but it's also a popular tourist destination during the day.
- The CBD's architecture: The CBD is home to a variety of architectural styles, from the French colonial architecture of the French Quarter to the modern skyscrapers of the financial district. A walking tour of the CBD is a great way to learn about the city's architectural history.
- The CBD's culture: The CBD is a melting pot of cultures, and it's home to people from all over the world. A walking tour of the CBD is a great way to learn about the city's diverse culture.

If you're interested in learning more about New Orleans, a walking tour of the CBD is a great way to do it. You'll see some of the city's most iconic landmarks, learn about its history, architecture, and culture, and experience the city's vibrant atmosphere.
